1- Morocco has begun shipment of 8 million masks and other medical supplies to help 15 African countries in their efforts to deal with the coronavirus outbreak, as instructed directly by Moroccan King Mohammed VI.

2- Many journalists, public figures, and African media are expressing gratitude for King Mohammed VI's instructions that allowed 15 African states to benefit from shipments of medical supplies. Maghreb Arab Press (MAP) quoted African diplomats who welcomed Morocco's initiative, with the ambassador permanent of Equatorial Guinea describing it as a "very good royal gesture" and his Senegalese counterpart saying it came as "happy news."

3- The ambassador permanent representative of Cameroon to the African Union expressed "heartfelt" thanks for Morocco's assistance, offered in favor of several African countries affected by the COVID-19 health crisis. The diplomat translated the move as a "new step in cooperation" between Morocco and Cameroon. Again, the ambassador permanent representative of the Comoros said the initiative shows the significance of solidarity in Africa. "Africa helps Africa," the diplomat said.

4- All of the concerned diplomats expressed heartfelt appreciation and thanks to King Mohammed VI, who ordered the government to send batches of face masks, chloroquine, headwear, hand sanitizers, and other medical supplies to help African states to mitigate the COVID-19 health crisis. The countries to receive medical supplies include: Burkina Faso, Cameroon, Comoros, Republic of the Congo, Eswatini, Guinea, Guinea-Bissau, Malawi, Mauritania, Niger, the Democratic Republic of Congo, Senegal, Tanzania, Chad, and Zambia.

5- Mauritania said the aid comes at "perfect timing," testifying to the strength of the "remarkable relations between the two countries and the two brotherly peoples." Mauritanian Minister of Foreign Affairs Ismail Ould Cheik Ahmed described the news as "important." The office of the World Health Organization (WHO) in Mauritania expressed pride and satisfaction with the Moroccan initiative. This initiative aims, inter alia, to promoting the sharing of best practices in the fight against the coronavirus pandemic and bolstering cooperation to mitigate the health, economic and social impacts of the pandemic.
