Coronavirus: Moroccans' Inspiring solidarity and generosity

(1) It is true that in times of crisis and disasters, people come together, comfort each other and unite against common threats. In Morocco, the coronavirus pandemic has triggered unprecedented acts of solidarity, and generosity, bringing out the best of Moroccan people.

(2) As most Moroccans are staying at home to prevent the spread of Covid-19, the doctors, nurses, pharmacists, caregivers, store clerks, utility workers, cleaners... have become the new heroes of society. They are on the frontline of the fight against the coronavirus pandemic, which has reshaped people's daily lives at home and work, enabling them to rethink how they protect themselves and what they value most.

(3) As a token of appreciation for their sacrifice, several hotels in Casablanca, Marrakech, Tangiers, Tinghir offer free stays for the doctors and paramedics as well as for the security agents, while some restaurants and firms are giving free food, bottled water, goods, medical products and masks. A local car-maker has donated 50 ambulances to the Moroccan authorities to help them cope with the coronavirus, while a group of companies donated tons of food products including UHT milk, oil, sugar, tea, juice, couscous, flour, pastas....

(4) The combined exceptional precautionary and relief measures adopted by Morocco make all the difference for those cooped up in their homes. It seems that some good things will ultimately come out of the covid-19 home confinement, which has allowed family members to band together, reconnect with each other and rediscover themselves.

(5) As long as all components of Moroccan society continue to pull together, showing solidarity and generous self-denial, they will certainly get through this difficult situation.
