In England, we have a lot of unique cultural practices. How about there in Morocco? Do you have some interesting cultural aspects? And what makes your culture different from other cultures?

Hello Jack,

I was really happy to receive your last email. It was nice to know all the different cultural aspects you have in England. In this email, I will tell you a little bit about our unique Moroccan culture.

In Morocco, we have some interesting clothes that you won't find anywhere else. Women like to wear 'Kaftan' which is a fancy piece of clothes that cover the whole body. The equivalent of 'Kaftan' for men is known as 'Djellaba', and it feels so comfortable when you wear it.

Also, we have some special types of food. From the famous 'Harira' to the Friday Couscous. Our cuisine has gained knowledge all around the world. However, people nowadays are following the West practices of eating outside. This, in my opinion, doesn't promote our traditions.

Lastly, Morocco is also unique by the way old buildings are built. We used to employ mosaic to make some fancy decorations. You can see that in almost every mosque in Morocco.

I want you to know that I've missed you, dear Jack. And I'll tell you more about our culture when we meet.

All the best
